Foreign languages are all different!

English, Spanish, Chinese and Japanese are all humans written languages.
They obviously use different vocabulary and/or characters, but here I want to bring your attention to punctuation and ordering.

Question mark "?"

In English, Chinese and Japanese we use "?" in order to indicate a question:

?

He likes hamburger?
他喜欢汉堡包吗?

Well in Spanish we use 2 "?" to indicate a question:
¿   ?

Full stops "." and "。"

In English and spanish a normal sentence ends with a full stop ".", while in Chinese and Japanese we use "。"

Ordering

In English, Chinese and Spanish the typical ordering is: subject + verb + complement

He likes hamburger.
他喜欢汉堡包。

In Japanese the ordering is different, it is: complement + subject + verb ! How interesting!
日语: +   +

Differences between English and Python English

This is a table that shows you some of the differences:

ENGLISH	PYTHON ENGLISH
Come !	Come()
Run !	Run()
Eat your plate !	eat(your_plate)
Say hi !	say(hi)
Say "hi"!	say("hi")

English	Python English
Jason's father	Jason.father
Jason's bike	Jason.bike
The bike of jason's dad	Jason.dad.bike

Homework

Please fill in the table below.

ENGLISH	PYTHON ENGLISH
Run !	run()
Jump !	Jump()
Walk slowly !	walk(slowly)
Walk fast !
Come !
	Write()
	write("hello")
Say "Hi" !
Say "thank you Dad!" !
	say("pleased to meet you.")
Mike's bike
The bike of Mike	Mike.bike
The dad of Mike
Mike's dad
	Jason.mother
The age of Mike	Mike.age
The age of mike is 11	Mike.age = 11
The age of jason
	Jason.mother.age
	Jason.mother.age = 30